

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

Aboriginal Chronic Conditions Network Conference

Date: 1st & 2nd of May 2023

Theme: Aboriginal Workforce and Chronic Care Models

The Aboriginal Chronic Conditions Network at the Agency for Clinical Innovation would like to invite authors to submit abstracts for the 2023 - Aboriginal Chronic Conditions Conference.

The conference will be held both virtually and in person at 1 Reserve Road, St Leonards, Sydney.

The aim of this conference is to showcase each other's success and key learnings in designing and delivering chronic care models for Aboriginal peoples and communities.

A key focus of the 2023 conference is to:

- Highlight the critical importance that Aboriginal workforce play within chronic care models and improving health outcomes for Aboriginal peoples and communities.
- Showcase Aboriginal led innovations across Aboriginal Health and the chronic care space.

We call on abstracts that highlight the success or showcase innovations in Aboriginal workforce models and or Aboriginal chronic care. This includes across the Aboriginal Community Control Health Services, Local Health Districts, Speciality Health Networks and other health related organisations across Australia.

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

1. Showcase innovations and the critical importance of Aboriginal workforce within chronic care models
2. Share success and key learnings in the design and delivery of chronic care models for Aboriginal Peoples that are culturally responsive and meet the needs of community.
3. Strengthen integrated approaches to Aboriginal Health and collaborative partnerships between services.

4. Showcase Aboriginal leadership and self-determination across Aboriginal Health.
5. Showcase and celebrate Aboriginal culture as a key element to the healing and wellbeing of Aboriginal peoples.

SELECTION CRITERIA

The following selection criteria will apply:

1. The presentations must relate directly to conference objectives and fit within the conference theme.
2. The presentations must relate to health conditions that impact upon Aboriginal people's health disparities.
3. The presentations can range from perinatal to older persons.
4. Preference will be given to presentations that are:
 - a. Presented or co-presented by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and community members.
 - b. Evidence or outcome based (what is working).
 - c. Identify key learnings.

CONFERENCE TIMELINE

Call for abstracts open	December 2023
Close of abstract submissions	8th March 2023
Notification of outcome to authors	23 rd March 2023
Conference date	1 st & 2nd May 2023

Please submit abstracts by COB Monday 8th March 2023 to ACI-ACCN@health.nsw.gov.au

For further information please contact Kiel Hennessey via ACI-ACCN@health.nsw.gov.au

Abstract Template

Presentation will be held in person or virtually for up to 20 minutes plus question time.

Please add your abstract details to the below sections and send to ACI-ACCN@health.nsw.gov.au by COB the 8th March 2023.

An email acknowledgement will be sent to the presenting author once your abstract is successfully submitted. Please note that only electronic submissions will be accepted. Abstracts received after the closing date will NOT be accepted.

- Presentation title:
- Presenters/s and bio/s:
- Service/Agency:
- Contact details for all presenter/s (email and phone):
- Are any of the presenters of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander origin?
- Short description (brief description of your submission) max 25 words:
- How does the work outlined in your abstract align with the conference theme and objectives (200 words)?
- Abstract (500 words max):