

Are you a grandparent who has full-time care of your grandchildren?

Wanslea Family Services invites grandparent carers to participate in part of a Lotterywest funded research study being conducted by Edith Cowan University.

The research aims to deliver more effective support to the rapidly growing number of grandparents who have full-time care of their grandchildren.

Some grandparents prefer to do an online or paper survey.

Other grandparents prefer to share their information through an interview with a researcher - no matter where they live in the State.
