1. Remoteness Areas (RAs) are based on the Australian Standard Geographical Classification (ASGC) developed by the Australian Bureau of Statistics. This classification provides an indication of the degree of remoteness (or distance) from major cities (ABS 2006). The number of service users in each RA was estimated based on residential postcodes. Some postcode areas were split between two or more RAs. Where this was the case, the data were weighted according to the proportion of the population of the postcode area in each RA. Totals may not be the sum of the components due to rounding.

Notes

1. Usual residential setting refers to the type of physical accommodation in which the person was living for 4 or more days per week on average, as at 30 June 2010 or on exit from YPIRAC. See Younger People with Disability in Residential Aged Care Program: Report on the 2008–09 Minimum Data Set (AIHW 2010) for further information.
2. 'Other' residential setting includes: independent living within a retirement village; short-term crisis, emergency or transitional accommodation; psychiatric/mental health community care facilities; and other settings.
3. A small number of service users (< 5) may receive services in more than one jurisdiction. These may be counted more than once in the table.
4. The definition of 'YPIRAC service user' was refined after the 2006–07 data collection. Therefore comparisons between 2006–07 and later reporting periods should be undertaken with caution.

3. The definition of 'YPIRAC assessment' was refined, 'YPIRAC client monitoring' was added as a service type, and the data items relating to service use were refined and restructured after the 2006–07 reporting year. Therefore comparisons between 2006–07 and later reporting periods should be undertaken with caution.
4. New South Wales does not record client monitoring as a service.

Notes

1. Service user numbers are estimates after the use of a statistical linkage key to adjust for individuals who received services from more than one jurisdiction during the reporting period.
2. The definition of 'YPIRAC service user' was refined after the 2006–07 data collection.
3. The definition of 'YPIRAC assessment' was refined, 'YPIRAC client monitoring' was added as a service type, and the data items relating to service use were refined and restructured after the 2006–07 reporting year.

Measuring progress towards YPIRAC objectives

Table 59: Estimated number of YPIRAC service users who have achieved YPIRAC objectives, 2006–07 to 2009–10

YPIRAC objectives	Estimated number of service users who achieved YPIRAC objectives during:
	2006–07	2007–08	2008–09	2009–10
Objective 1: People moving out of residential aged care to more age-appropriate supported disability accommodation.	17	43	87	129
Objective 2: People at risk diverted from inappropriate admission to residential aged care	24	89	133	185
Objective 3: People provided with enhanced services within a residential aged care setting, for whom residential aged care is the only available, suitable supported accommodation option	12	133	293	368
Total YPIRAC service users in reporting period	260	580	817	943

Notes

1. A small number of service users (< 5) may receive services in more than one jurisdiction. These may be counted more than once in the table.
2. The definition of 'YPIRAC service user' was refined after the 2006–07 data collection. Therefore comparisons between 2006–07 and later reporting periods should be undertaken with caution.
3. The definition of 'YPIRAC assessment' was refined, 'YPIRAC client monitoring' was added as a service type, and the data items relating to service use were refined and restructured after the 2006–07 reporting year.
4. Numbers do not add to the total as not all service users achieve objectives under YPIRAC, and some service users may achieve more than one objective as their circumstances or service availability change over time.

Table 60: Estimated running tally of YPIRAC service users who have achieved YPIRAC objectives since entry to 30 June 2010, by age group in year of entry

	Less than 50 years		50–64 years		Total
	Number	Per cent of service users in target group ^(a)	Number	Per cent of service users in target group ^(a)	Number	Per cent of service users in target group ^(a)
Objective 1: People moving out of residential aged care to more appropriate supported disability accommodation	110	30.0	29	34.1	139	30.8
Objective 2: People at risk diverted from inappropriate admission to residential aged care	184	75.1	23	71.9	207	74.7
Objective 3: People provided with enhanced services within a residential aged care setting, for whom residential aged care is the only available, suitable supported accommodation option	336	68.9	73	51.4	409	64.9
Total YPIRAC service users	914	100.0	227	100.0	1,141	100.0

(a) Percentages are calculated using the following denominators:

Objective 1: Target group 1 Agreed to or has moved from residential aged care to alternative YPIRAC-funded accommodation and support.

Objective 2: Target group 2 Deemed 'at risk' of entry into residential aged care.

Objective 3: Target group 1 Agreed to or has moved from residential aged care to alternative YPIRAC-funded accommodation and support but still residing in residential aged care, and Target group 3 remain in or enter residential aged care with additional disability support services.

Notes

1. Service user numbers are estimates after the use of a statistical linkage key to adjust for individuals who received services from more than one jurisdiction.
2. The definition of 'YPIRAC service user' was refined after the 2006–07 data collection.
3. The definition of 'YPIRAC assessment' was refined, 'YPIRAC client monitoring' was added as a service type, and the data items relating to service use were refined and restructured after the 2006–07 reporting year.
4. Service users may have received services in more than one collection period and may have had different target groups and residential settings recorded in different years. The most recently provided target group and residential setting were used to determine whether service users have achieved YPIRAC objectives.
5. Numbers do not add to the total as not all service users achieve objectives under YPIRAC, and some service users may achieve more than one objective as their circumstances or service availability change over time.
6. The 5–64 year age group includes a small number of YPIRAC service users (<5) aged 65 years who were included in YPIRAC for operational reasons.

Total YPIRAC service users	241	292	277	121	134	29	29	21	1,141

Notes

1. Service user numbers are estimates after the use of a statistical linkage key to adjust for individuals who received services in more than one jurisdiction. For this reason, state and territory numbers may not add to the national total.
2. The definition of 'YPIRAC service user' was refined after the 2006–07 data collection.
3. The definition of 'YPIRAC assessment' was refined, 'YPIRAC client monitoring' was added as a service type, and the data items relating to service use were refined and restructured after the 2006–07 reporting year.

5. Numbers do not add to the total as not all service users achieve objectives under YPIRAC, and some service users may achieve more than one objective as their circumstances or service availability change over time.
6. In New South Wales, potential clients are assessed for eligibility and, if eligible, are only offered further services (including an assessment of support needs) when there is capacity to provide them. Clients are not considered service users until they actually receive a YPIRAC-funded support service such as assistive products and technology, individual care planning or accommodation support services.

 - Group 1 Agreed to or has moved from residential aged care to alternative YPIRAC-funded accommodation and support
 - Group 2 Deemed 'at risk' of entry into residential aged care
 - Group 3 Remain in or enter residential aged care with additional disability support services
